

CITY ON FIRE World's most dangerous city descending into all-out WAR as machete vigilantes butcher & burn gangsters in mob justice

SMOULDERING bodies line streets, sniper rounds pound from rooftops, and children scream - Haiti's capital is under siege by armed gangs, but there's a new grisly group in town.

The most dangerous city on earth has become even deadlier as vigilantes have taken the law into their own hands to hunt down the criminals street-by-street - turning Port-au-Prince into an open warzone.

Horrific scenes over the last few months have seen fighting on the streets as gangs clash with the vigilantes - with some of the criminals even being butchered, lynched and burned.

In May, the UN human rights chief declared the Caribbean nation was "dangling over an abyss" as its capital of Port-au-Prince sinks further into a bloody urban war.
