

‘Jesus Freak’ comic reportedly portrays Christ as killer who beheads foes

Comic transforms Jesus into brutal assassin

An upcoming graphic novel reportedly portrays Jesus Christ in a whole new light.

The Image Comics novel “Jesusfreak,” depicts a sword-wielding Jesus Christ who chops off the heads of his opponents, The Christian Post reported Monday.

The work, set in the year 26 C.E., is “a bloody, two-fisted tale of historical heroic fiction,” according to its online description.

Instead of pulling from “strict religious traditions,” the storyline was more interested in taking a deep-dive into “the unique tension that exists between depicting a mythical figure and a historical figure – a tension that is compounded when, for many, they’re considered the same person,” the novel’s writer Joe Casey previously said, according to Deadline.

The novel is due out on March 20.

Source:

<https://www.foxnews.com/faith-values/jesusfreak-comic-reportedly-portrays-christ-as-killer-who-beheads-foes>

[Disclaimer]