

Migrants: ‘we don’t like EU plan, harsh talks’, Amendola

European affairs undersecretary says ‘we need to change the system.’

(ANSAmед) - ROME, APRIL 26 - Italian undersecretary for European Affairs, Enzo Amendola, told RAI’s Agorà program that “this is a present we need to change because there are no European missions, we are negotiating, the talks aren’t easy, we don’t like the agreement that Europe is proposing on migrations and we absolutely need to change the system”. He added that “it is absolutely not a theme for observes, it is a harsh negotiation and we want Europe to organize and structure itself in terms of solidarity and responsibility in its borders”.

“Enrico Letta - continued Amendola - spoke about a next-generation on immigration, we want an agreement at a European level, like we want, as far as Libya is concerned, not to discuss generic interest but to help that country now that it has exited war to prevent these tragedies to make a comeback in all their drama”.
