

Muslim billionaire Asif Aziz granted permission to turn London landmark Trocadero into mosque

A major London landmark will undergo a controversial revamp after a Muslim billionaire won his bid to build a place of prayer.

A Muslim billionaire has won permission to turn a major London landmark into a mosque.

Mega-rich Asif Aziz, 56, known as Mr West End, will take over the Trocadero in the centre of the capital, The Sun reports.

He had applied to build a 1000-person capacity mosque but plans were withdrawn because of backlash from residents.

But now Westminster Council has approved a three-storey mosque for 390 worshippers, The Daily Mail reported on Sunday.

It's thought it will be called "Piccadilly Prayer Space" and could be open within months.
