

SWEDEN RIOTS: Masked gangs set FIRE to 80 vehicles in shock violence weeks before election

SWEDEN was engulfed in violence last night as dozens of cars were set alight and stones were thrown at police by gangs of masked youths rampaged across the country.

Fires were reported in Malmö, Gothenburg and Helsingborg and shocking footage showed youths destroying vehicles in a shopping centre and hospital car park in Frölunda Torg in the west of the country.

Police are investigating whether the fires which broke out across the country are related.

Sweden police said: "While most fires were started within a short period of time, it can not be excluded that there is a connection between the fires, the case will be investigated."

The fires sparked outrage with Swedish Prime Minister Stefan Löfven saying: "I get pissed off for real."

At least 80 vehicles were torched in the riots (Image: TWITTER/JJOHANJJANSSON)

RELATED ARTICLES

■ Holy Fire latest update: Baby deer rescued – fire reaches 22,986 acres

■ California fires update: San Pasqual fire is ARSON – fires MAPPED

Adding that he wanted to ask the rioters, “what the hell are you doing”?

The largest group of youths gathered in Trollhättan, north of Gothenburg.

It is reported that as many as 40 people threw stones and started fires.

Footage also shows vehicles covered in flames in a car park at Frölunda Torg, which includes a specialist hospital as well as a shopping centre.

The PM said he was 'p*d off' by the rioting (Image: GETTY)

RELATED ARTICLES

Sweden election 2018: What is Swexit? Will Sweden LEAVE the EU afte...

Sweden election polls: When is the Swedish election? When are results

There were also cars set on fire in Hjällbo, the northeast of Gothenburg, in Malmo and Helsingborg.

Swedish police said emergency services were tackling the outbreak of violence but no injuries have been reported.

National Swedish radio has claimed around 40 firefighters were in action tackling the different blazes.

All fires were extinguished by midnight and police said the identification process is ongoing.

All fires were extinguished by midnight and police said the identification process is ongoing (Image: TWITTER/JJOHANJJANSSON)

It is not clear at this time whether any arrests have been made.

Around 80 vehicles are left vandalised, with three caravans and a truck also targeted.

People took to social media to express their anger at the violence.

One user said: "Isn't it the government's duty to keep society free from things like this?"

The violence comes just three weeks before a general election.

It is expected eurosceptic and right-wing parties could make significant gains in the polls.

RELATED ARTICLES

- Ryanair cancelled flights: Pilot strike full list across Europe
- Sweden election polls shows eurosceptics third as leaders face WORS...
- Sweden election polls: Who will win the election in the Sweden next...

Source: <https://www.express.co.uk/news/world/1003135/sweden-elections-riots-violence-Sweden-gangs-gothenburg-malmo-helsingborg>

[Disclaimer]