

Venezuela crisis: The refugees who fled a collapsed economy

Dire economic conditions in Venezuela cause worst refugee crisis in Latin America's history: Brookings Institute.

Millions of Venezuelans have left their country since 2013 as its economy crashed, with schools and hospitals unable to provide basic services.

They fled to neighbouring countries such as Peru, which has given residency to nearly 70,000 Venezuelans.

Some of them are highly qualified, but most are forced to take up menial jobs.

Source:

<https://www.aljazeera.com/news/2019/12/venezuela-refugee-crisis-collapsed-economy-flee-191230094505677.html>

[Disclaimer]